Appendix B - Correspondence between Postmaster General and Special Agents, 1848-1849 372

Scope

Part I of this volume presents an abstract of the official records of the establishment, discontinuance, and change of name of all post offices operated in California from 1848 to the end of 1954. From 1848 to near the end of 1931, by "establishment" is meant the appointment of the first postmaster upon dates read from a microfilm of the "Records of Appointments of Postmasters." The "Records" are the original entries by clerks of the Post Office Department, now preserved in the National Archives. For the period after 1931, the information has been drawn from the Postal Bulletin issued regularly by the Post Office Department.

Part II consists of twenty official and unofficial lists published on various dates between 1849 and 1859, reporting the offices then operating in California, plus an abstract (List 1) drawn from Part I covering the 1849-59 period.

Appendix A is a short account of the creation of California counties and of their boundary changes. Appendix B consists of correspondence between the Postmaster General and the first two Special Agents for California in 1848 and 1849.

Purpose

The prime purpose of the publication is to make available the most significant entries found in the official but unpublished "Records of Appointments"; secondly, to bring together other published but hopelessly dispersed information about the first decade of California postal service.

Persons interested in local and community history, as well as "cover collectors" and those specializing in postal affairs, have long felt the need for comprehensive and authentic information about California Post Offices, active and "dead." A few enthusiasts have patiently compiled private lists and dates, but none appear to be satisfied with the completeness or accuracy of the result. The basic information, which has heretofore consisted principally of lists of offices in operation at the time of publication, is not completely available in any one locality, and there are many gaps and conflicts.

Comments on Part I

That was the situation encountered by the author when stirred by the California and succeeding local Centenaries he undertook the collection of Alameda, Contra Costa, and Madera County covers. Naturally the first step was to acquire a list, including period of operation, of all offices that had ever been established in those counties. A friendly dealer whose efforts antedated and exceeded his business interests permitted access to his private list, estimated to be perhaps ninety percent complete. Then began a search for more information among local libraries, soon taking in the University of California, which was found to have the largest number of lists--mostly in the Bancroft Library and the Document Department. In these was found the so-called "Official Register of the United States," which has not been generally known by those interested in postal history. First authorized in 1816 and expanded after 1832, and published in each odd numbered year, it includes the name of every person in the employ of the United States on September 30 of that year, and his compensation during the fiscal year ending on June 30 just past. Until 1913 the Post Office Department was included. The University of California has an almost complete file. Missing numbers were found in the State Library at Sacramento and the Public Library at Los Angeles whose files are also excellent. Many other lists were found at the University and at the State Library: published in the early newspapers from information furnished by the Special Agent of the Department or the Postmaster at San Francisco; unofficial "Guides" and "Directories," usually compiled with the help of the Department or its former employees; official Guides, commencing 1874; and for the period after 1931 the Guides and the Postal Bulletin. One or two lists also came from private libraries.

But the resulting information was not satisfactory. There were too many conflicts; not enough information about changes of name; and, save a few items in the "Register," few definite dates of establishment or discontinuance. At this stage the availability of the "Records of Appointments of Postmasters" was learned. Inquiry directed to the National Archives and Records Service at Washington brought the offer of a microfilm of the California Section of the Records at a small cost. The film was ordered and arrived in December of 1952. Reading facilities were found at the Bancroft Library, available especially during week-ends, a most convenient time. The pertinent information was then transcribed onto cards, checked, and assembled.

Information on the film terminates with the latter part of 1931. It seemed desirable to bring the information up to date if possible. A tabulation was prepared from the Postal Guides, but this left much to be desired, especially as the Guide is published biennially since 1937. Recourse was then had to the Postal Bulletin, of which the University has a file from 1942 onward. Most of the numbers from 1936 to 1941 were found at the Berkeley Post Office, and finally a Los Angeles collector found 1930 to 1942 in that vicinity.

Arrangement

The original "Records" are arranged by counties and it was thought best to adopt the same form in presenting this abstract of information. It saves space, is most convenient for the average reader, and facilitates the use of explanatory footnotes.

At this point it should be noted that the "Records" have many errors of county placement of offices, and are sometimes wrong and often vague about the date of change from one county to another. This is not surprising inasmuch as this item was of least importance to the keepers of records of "Appointments of Postmasters." Some of the errors were probably due to laxness somewhere along the line of communication, but many arose from early uncertainties about the precise location of the county boundaries, to a change in the site of the office, or to a lag in the recognition of changes.

To meet this condition, it was necessary to review the history of the formation of California counties and of their boundary changes, summarized in Appendix A. Under each county title the date of its creation has been stated, and footnotes comment upon the principal errors and uncertainties. A few very obvious errors, such as the brief placement of Volcano in Alameda County when separated from Calaveras County by the creation of Amador County in 1854, have been ignored.

The Index to Part I furnishes the much wanted "Statewide Master List." However, to make it complete, Eliza from List 7 and Central from List 9 of Part II should be added; and probably Macksville, Pleasant Grove, and Solidad from List 8.

Column Headings

The column headed "Office" has the name of the post office as spelled in the "Records," except for possible typographical errors or misinterpretations of handwriting; and except that no effort has been made to adhere precisely to the presence or absence of the apostrophe that sometimes appeared before the possessive "s" of some of the early names. A flagrant example of early misinterpretation is found in the first spelling of Ione. This office, established in Calaveras County in 1852, was carried as Jone Valley until transferred to Amador County in 1857 (nearly three years late) as Ione City. Yet lists currently published in California, copied into Part II, all had it Ione Valley. A similar error might easily occur today in transcribing the handwritten "Records." Cases of definite doubt were verified by going to printed "Guides" or other lists, but some errors may have slipped through.

In the column headed "Established," the dates from 1848 to late 1931 are those given in the "Records of Appointments." That is exactly what they are, the date of the appointment of the first post master. There is no implication that the office opened for busines on that date, as explained below. From 1931 to the middle of 1945 they are the date of the announcement in the Postal Bulletin, and their relation to the opening of the office has not been ascertained. From the middle of 1945 onward they are the "effective date" stat in the Bulletin.

Dates in the column headed "Discontinued" are believed to be fair reliable, especially after Department supervision became reasonably adequate. However, it is suspected that in the earliest days numerous small offices ceased business without formal notificatior or approval. For example, Junction, Contra Costa County, is reported in the Registers of 1851 and 1853. In 1851 the postmaster reported approximately $200.00 of receipts, of which he received $81.06. The 1853 Register reports "No Return"; the "Records of Appointments" show the office closed on 20 December 1853. Yet the list published in "Daily Alta California" of July 29, 1851, probably as of early July, in listing Antioch as an office, has the note "Removed from junction (New York of the Pacific)." Apparently Junction ceased when Antioch was established. The sites were not more than four miles apart and they served the same patrons. Probably the whole story was known to the Special Agent in San Francisco, but more than two years was required to clear the Wash ington records. Doubtless the example of Junction is an extreme case, but it is probable that official information of discontinuances often lagged weeks or even months behind the event. Even today a reader of the Postal Bulletin will occasionally find the report of a discontinuance effective long prior to the date of announcement.

Dates of name changes published in Part I are officially correct, but this is no assurance that the postmark was changed on that day. In early days the change may have been anticipated or may have been delayed by the length of time required for notification and for obtaining the new postmark stamp. Of late years notice is given by fixing an effective date but that does not prevent occasional lapses. Non-conforming postmarks will be found, especially of an office that is discontinued to become a branch or station of another.

Part II

From the foregoing, it might be supposed that the tabulation presented in Part I, mostly drawn from the microfilmed "Records," would answer all questions within its scope. It furnishes the answers that a postmaster or other interested person would receive period (List 3 to List 21). List 2 is copied from one page of the microfilm of the "Records of Appointments." It was not publishe but it was compiled in Washington at the time, showing what information the Department had up to early 1851.

The first and most glaring inconsistency is found upon comparing List 1 with the 1851 "Register" List 7. The "Register" fiscal records show operation of many post offices long before the officia appointment of a postmaster. This is confirmed by List 5, publish in San Francisco by the "Daily Alta California" in July, 1851. A reading of Appendix B gives the answer: the Special Agents had authority to establish offices and appoint postmasters to serve until approved or rejected by the Department in Washington. The "Records of Appointments" give the date of that approval, taking no account of prior operation with the same or another postmaster under the authority of the Special Agent.

That Special Agents Van Voorhees and Allen did exercise their authority to establish offices and appoint postmasters is shown by their reports (Appendix B), the "Registers" of 1851 and 1853, and newspaper lists. Complete reports of their activities are not available and probably were never made.

Late in 1851 and through 1852 the picture changed, and increasingly new post office operation awaited Washington approval. After 1853 the dates shown in List 1 for the appointment of "first postmasters" are earlier, generally by two to many months, than the date of commencing business indicated by applicable current lists.

The reversal of the early practice is partially explained by the final document in Appendix B. This is a letter from Postmaster General Collamer to "Col. R. T. P. Allen" under date of December 10, 1849. It is a sharp reprimand for failing to establish an office at San Diego; for establishing interior offices whose "nett proceeds" would be insufficient to pay for the transportation of their mail; and particularly for letting transportation contracts at prices far in excess of those prevailing in other parts of the United States, and in excess of possible "nett proceeds." The Postmaster General cited the contract for transportation from San Francisco to Sacramento and thence to Culloma at $36,400 per annum, and to Monterey and Stockton at $26,000. "There is nothing to show that the offices above named yield at the rate of $62,400 per annum--an amount that is believed to be vastly beyond the nett proceeds of those offices to which nett proceeds you are instructed to limit the cost of your mail arrangements." (The Register for 1851, List 7, shows for the fiscal year 1850-1851, net proceeds: Sacramento $88,678.03; Coloma $4,900.01; Stockton $9,495.23; Monterey (3 qrs.) $678.97 Total $103,752.30). The letter goes on to recite that the required reports and copies of contracts have not been received, and threatens to dishonor the contracts, "not only because they are beyond the limitations prescribed in the instructions, but beyond the limitations prescribed by law, because, as the letter of 31st March informed you, no routes in the interior of California had yet been established by act of Congress."

The castigation of December 10, 1849, does not withdraw the authority of the Special Agent to establish post offices and appoint postmasters, which authority was freely used in 1850 and more sparingly later, but it is a clear intimation that Washington proposed to exercise more control over California operations. Apparently the Postmaster General modified his attitude upon receipt of fuller reports from Allen, and probably from Postmaster Moore of San Francisco in whom the Department placed great confidence. However, restriction of authority was inevitable and commenced a year or two later.

Following are a number of illustrations of the kind of information that may be had from a comparison of List 1 with others:

Monterey: Lists 1 and 2 record the appointment of William G. Marcy on 21 Nov. 1848. List 3 (1849 Register) shows that his compensation commenced Feb. 23, 1849. Without further information, the 23 February date might well be accepted as the date of opening. The conclusion is confirmed by the letter from W. Van Voorhees dated in San Francisco March 14, 1849. He had arrived in San Francisco via the steamer "California" on February 28, had stopped at Monterey where "the mails were delivered to Captain William G. Marcy, who received, opened and distributed them, without, however, consenting to enter permanently upon the duties of office. He nevertheless executed his bond as postmaster. . ." There cannot be much doubt that the bond was dated February 23, on or very near the day when he began the distribution of mail, and this date was adopted by Washington as that upon which his compensation should begin.

The story of San Francisco is somewhat similar, but more complex. Lists 1 and 2 show four postmasters appointed for San Francisco, of whom the first two never took office. When Van Voorhees arrived in San Francisco on February 28, he found no postmaster. Therefore he appointed C. L. Ross, "a merchant of some considerable standing," to open and distribute the mail and to take charge until the arrival of a postmaster. March 1, 1849, must therefore be the date or very close to the date of actual opening of the office. It would seem that San Francisco should have been reported in List 3, the 1849 Register. Events between March and September probably explain its omission. R. T. P. Allen, successor to Van Voorhees, arrived on June 13, and assumed office on the 15th. (Allen's letter of June 23, 1849.) In a letter of August 29, he reports that John W. Geary, the incumbent in San Francisco, had tendered his resignation soon after his (Allen's) arrival, and W. P. Bryan, "an eminent (Whig) gentleman of Tennessee," had been appointed to serve until the arrival of Mr. Moore (the fourth appointee) which occurred in August. Evidently Geary had arrived and displaced Ross sometime during Van Voorhees' administration, but resigned before June 30. Therefore there was no officer in the service of the United States as postmaster of San Francisco on the 30th September, 1849, who had served during the fiscal year ending 30 June 1849. Compilers of the "Register" apparently omitted San Francisco as being outside the scope of their publication.

Monterey and San Francisco post offices opened for business several months after the Washington appointment of a postmaster. But thereafter came a period of some two years when offices opened before the date of the Washington appointment; this by the authority delegated to and exercised by the Special Agents. Those shown on List 2 were probably all in that category except Monterey and San Francisco, but official records are lacking. List 6 and List 7 show clearly the operation of that practice, while List 9 indicates the return to what might be called normal procedure.

List 2, which is incorporated into List 1, shows twenty-one offices established in California prior to June 30, 1851. List 6, published by "Alta California" in San Francisco on July 29, 1851, assumedly as of early July, shows sixty-one; omitting Haydensville and Junction, forty-two new offices. List 7, the 1851 Register, as of June 30, 1851, reports remuneration and "Nett Proceeds" for thirty-four offices, for seventeen of which the first postmaster, according to List 1, was not appointed until after July 1, 1851. One, Eliza, Yuba County, does not appear at all on List 1, evidently having been discontinued before Department approval was given. Yet Henry Severance was allowed $40.37 for services between Oct. 1, 1850 and June 30, 1851. Marysville operated throughout the fiscal year 1850-51, and its "Nett proceeds" were $4,633.43, the fifth largest in the State. But List 1 shows Postmaster Cushing not appointed until July 28, 1851. All but two of these new offices appear on List 6.

Thirty-seven additional offices, whose postmasters were not appointed in Washington until after July 1851, also appear in Table 7 with the notation "No Report." Evidently the compiler of the "Register" had reason to expect a report, perhaps because of stamps or other supplies furnished, or perhaps from information supplied by the Special Agent. The reports may have been delayed beyond the closing date of September 30, or may not have been due because of lack of business. However, all names but eleven appear on List 6 of July 29, 1851.

By the time the 1853 Register appeared, List 9, affairs were more stabilized. A comparison of the dates of sixteen newly established offices shows that the fiscal records started one to eleven months after the appointment, and only two operated before the appointment. One, Auburn, Placer County, apparently operated throughout the fiscal year 1852-3 with William Gwynn as poastmaster, and receipts of $2147, although the "Records of Appointments" show J. F. Bailey as the first postmaster appointed 21 July 1853. Auburn and Postmaster Gwynn appear also on List 8, printed in the "Sacramento Daily Union" of November 20, 1852, "(corrected to September First)." Another, Central, county not stated, operated for two quarters, with an income of $5.13, but, like Eliza, does not appear on List 1.

In addition to Eliza and Central, five other names that do not appear on List 1 or the "Records of Appointments" were observed on other Lists. They are Macksville, El Dorado County, Pleasant Grove, Sacramento County, and Solidad, San Luis Obispo County, all on List 8; New Potosi, Mariposa County, on Lists 16 and 20; and Springtown, county not named, on List 21. List 8 is from the "Sacramento Daily Union" of Nov. 20, 1852, and warrants a high degree of credence. It may well be that Macksville, Pleasant Grove, and Solidad operated briefly under the authority of the Special Agent in the fiscal year 1851-52, not reported by any "Register." Lists 16 and 20, which carry New Potosi, were published in Washington. The name does not appear on List 15 published in San Francisco by "The Wide West" at about the same time as List 16. Springtown is evidently a mistaken spelling of Stringtown, which according to List 1 was discontinued before the beginning of the fiscal year covered by List 21.

Turning to the 1855 "Register," List 13, the first half shows eighteen offices whose fiscal records began from forty days to eleven months after the appointment. The 1859 "Register," List 21, makes a similar showing but with rather less delays.

No comparison of "Records" and "Registers" has been made after 1859, but through the establishment of the Overland Mail in 1858, the completion of the transcontinental railroad in 1869, and the improvement of postal administration, it may be assumed that the lapse of time between appointment and commencement of business was reduced gradually to a few weeks, excepting isolated cases where special circumstances interfered.

As to the reliability of the lists published in Part II, the "Registers" are official documents published by the Department of State, compiled from information furnished by the Post Office Department and the Auditors. Errors in transmitting information should be expected. Some of the errors of spellings are obvious; a few are confusing when they create a different name. County locations are occasionally in error, perhaps reflecting a lag of information or the prevailing confusion. The financial reports have the appearance of being reliable, and are very illuminating. Not too much importance should be attached to the precise date of starting when reported as "--qrs;" for with few exceptions the postmasters were paid by fee, and there was no taint of fraud if a postmaster began business before or after the first day of the quarter for which he was reporting. It is regrettable that there were so many entries "No Return." It is impossible to know whether they were due to a combination of poor communication and reluctance of illiterate or busy postmasters to undertake the red tape involved, or were due to lack of business.

The private lists published in the East reflect official records and do not add much significant information. Those published in the West, especially in current newspapers, should be given much weight. The information came from the Special Agent of the Department, or the postmaster of San Francisco, and some of the lists carry a credit line.

Every effort has been made to copy Lists 2 to 21 exactly as originally published including what appear to be typographical or other obvious errors; but obvious space-saving abbreviations have been introduced.

Acknowledgment

The gathering of information contained in this volume was first casually undertaken to satisfy the author's personal curiosity. The project would never have been brought to its present stage without the encouragement and assistance of many others. Inspiration, constructive suggestions and important data have come especially from collectors of Western "covers" and other historical material. Others have participated in the mechanical work. The staffs of the National Archives and of the Libraries mentioned above have been most courteous and helpful. Finally, publication has been made possible by the sponsorship of the Philatelic Research Society, the support of members of the Western Cover Society, and the very tangible contributions of those who have made advance subscriptions. The author feels deeply grateful to all who have helped.

Although earnest effort has been made to check all items, it will be strange if there are not some errors or omissions. The author will appreciate having these called to his attention as an aid in the preparation of an "Errata" sheet if found desirable. This invitation applies primarily to errors that may be classed as clerical or typographical occurring in the preparation of the volume itself. No specific program has yet been outlined for handling comments by readers on the consistencies, inconsistencies, and errors in the official records and quoted lists; and making use of supplementary information and hints that may be submitted. However, all communications will be carefully filed for the benefit of individuals or groups who undertake further study of California Postal History.

An "Addenda," which will be found immediately after the Index to Part I, reports changes announced by the Post Office Department "Postal Bulletin" from January to June 30, 1955.

A CENTURY OF CALIFORNIA POST OFFICES

PART I

THEIR ESTABLISHMENT AND PERIOD OF OPERATION

1848 - 1931

From a microfilm of Records of the Post Office Department, "Records of Appointments of Postmasters, State of California, 1848-1930," preserved in the National Archives, Washington, D. C.

From "The Postal Bulletin," issued by the Post Office Department.

Offices are listed under the county of their site. Counties are arranged alphabetically. Following Yuba County is an index which constitutes a master state-wide alphabetical list of the offices.

PART I

The First column gives the name of the office as spelled in the official "Records of Appointments." Minor variations, sometimes formal and sometimes informal, are spelled out or indicated, except that the combining of two words into one, or the reverse, is not always noticed unless a letter is inserted or omitted.

The Second column, headed "Established", gives the theoretical date of establishment or re-establishment by the appointment of the first postmaster earlier than 1931. From the latter part of 1931 until the middle of 1945, it generally is the date of the Department order or announcement but may be the effective date; after the middle of 1945 it is the official "effective date" upon which the office is to be opened for business.

Preceding the Second column is sometimes found a name prefixed by "Fr", which means, "Name changed from -----" the stated name.

The Third column gives the official date of discontinuance. A dash in this column indicates that the office was still operating on the last day of December 1954. "To ---" means that the "Name was changed to ----" that indicated. "M" after the discontinuance date means "Mail sent to ----" the named office, which becomes the new address of the patrons of the discontinued office. "Into -----Co." means transferred to the named county, where the record is repeated and continued. Dates of county changes are not shown in the columns, but must be sought in a note under the county receiving the office. "Sta" or "Br" shows that the discontinued office became a station or branch of the named office. "Rescinded", with or without a date, means that the order of appointment or establishment was rescinded, probably before operations commenced. "No papers" has the same import.

*Into Alpine County when created 16 March 1864. Carey's Mills and Konigsberg were earlier in Nevada Territory, the latter in Douglas County.

†Established in Calaveras County, into Amador when created. Ione City was carried as Jone Valley in Calaveras until 1857, when changed to Jone City. Apparently the errors of spelling and county were discovered and corrected shortly thereafter.

‡Established in El Dorado County, into Amador when boundary was changed in 1855, though carried in El Dorado records until after appointment of Samuel R. Miller as postmaster 6 Feb 1864.

BRANCIFORTE COUNTY

Created 18 February 1850. Name changed to Santa Cruz in March 1850.

Office	Established	Discontinued
Santa Cruz	9 Apr 1850	Into Santa Cruz Co.

Note: Although the appointment of the Postmaster of Santa Cruz by the Department in Washington occurred on 9 April 1850, time of transit and other factors indicate that the recommendation by the Special Agent in San Francisco must have been made before the county name was changed by the Legislature late in March. Also, the office probably opened for business some time before the March date, under authority of the Special Agent.

*Butte Meadows was established in Tehama Co.; changed to Butte 7 June 1878; back to Tehama, apparently August 1880; then to Butte again May 1888; but not shown on Tehama page after 1880. The changes were probably by moving of site, rather than alteration of county boundaries.

†Cascade City was established in Yuba Co.; probably placed in Butte by boundary adjustment in 1860.

‡Honcut was established in Yuba Co. 5 April 1856; was changed to Butte Co. 21 Dec 1878, where it was discontinued 10 Dec 1884. It was re-established in Yuba 18 Dec 1884, but the name was changed to Bryden 6 Aug 1892. On 14 Sept of the same year, Moore's Station in Butte Co. was changed to Honcut, and as thus re-established, it operated until 30 Sept 1943. Apparently the changes occurred by shift of site rather than county boundary alterations.

§Rackerby was established in Yuba Co.; changed to Butte Co. 12 June 1930, but back to Yuba in time for the Postal Guide of 1937, all apparently by change of site.

¶West Butte soon went into Sutter Co., probably when boundaries were adjusted in 1864.

*Huron and Kingsburg are reported to have been established in Tulare County. As to the present site, however, Huron has always been in Fresno County. Also, the present site of Kingsburg appears to have been in Fresno County in 1875, but may have been acquired by a boundary adjustment of 1876. The name terminated in "h" from 18 Feb 1876 to 11 Jan 1894.

†The appointment of Edward P. Hart, the first Postmaster of Millerton, is recorded on a page headed "County Unknown". A later notation says "Now in Tulare County". This could not be, for the northern boundary of Tulare County was approximately thirty miles southerly of the San Joaquin River, upon which Millerton was located. It must have been in Mariposa County when established.

The appointment of the second Postmaster, Hugh A. Carroll, dated 30 June 1855, is recorded under Mariposa County, with notations "Into Merced County" (lined out) and "Into Frezno County". There can be no doubt that it was in Fresno County after that county was created 19 April 1856, taking all the surrounding area from Mariposa and Merced counties.

However, there is a possibility that it was in Merced County from 19 April 1855 to 19 April 1856. The answer depends upon the site of the office. The boundary between Mariposa and Merced counties, described in 1855, followed a road that crossed the San Joaquin at Converse's Ferry, known to be at or near Millerton. If the Post Office was upstream, it remained in Mariposa; if downstream, it went into Merced for a year until taken into Fresno, of which it was the county seat from 1856 to 1874. All of the historical references identify Millerton with Mariposa and Fresno counties only. It therefore seems apparent that Millerton should be recorded as established in Mariposa County in 1853 and transferred to Fresno County in 1856.

‡New Idria, according to the postal records, was established in Monterey County and soon transferred to Fresno County. The original Fresno-Monterey line was never legally altered. Therefore, the site of New Idria must have been changed; or, more likely, the record was in error, promptly corrected, due to uncertainties as to the location of the boundary on the ground, or because the site had access solely from the Monterey side. In 1887, New Idria and Panoche were transferred from Fresno County to San Benito County by a boundary change.

§Wheatville (the second of that name) is recorded "into Kings County 11 April 1907", and back to Fresno County in 1914. The present site of Wheatville, near Burrel, has always been in Fresno County, although there was an abortive move to transfer it to Kings County in 1907.

*Established in Klamath County; taken into Humboldt when Klamath area was apportioned between Humboldt and Siskiyou in 1875.

†Recorded as established in Trinity County, taken into Humboldt when created 12 March 1853. Thus Eureka was actually in Humboldt County when established, unless it operated under local authority three months before Washington approval. The record on Union Town is correct.

‡Recorded as established in Trinity County, although the site was taken into Klamath 25 April 1851. However, Trinidad may well have operated under the authority of the Special Agent of the Post Office Department while still in Trinity. See Part II, List 7. It remained in Klamath as County Seat until 1875, when the site was assigned to Humboldt County.

‡Tecopa was established in San Bernardino County, reported "into Inyo Co." 11 June 1880; and back into San Bernardino 19 June 1880, where it was discontinued 23 May 1881. *Established in Napa County; into Lake County when created.

†Stanton is reported to have been established in Colusa County 5 May 1879, and being in Lake County 7 July the same year. Inasmuch as the Lake-Colusa line appears to have been fixed in 1867, it seems unlikely that Stanton was ever in Colusa County.

‡The moving of the site of Quicksilver into Sonoma County, and the appointment of a new Postmaster, were authorized to be effective 14 Nov 1910. On 31 October, however, the office was discontinued. Apparently the move was not made, and Quicksilver never was in Sonoma County.

Created 1 April 1864 from Plumas and Shasta Areas

*Pittville was established in Shasta County. The record shows transfer to Lassen in July 1905, and return to Shasta soon thereafter, certainly before 6 May 1910. Thereafter, the Postal Guide shows it in Shasta to 1922; Lassen 1923 to 1927; Shasta 1928 to 1937; and Lassen thereafter. The shifts were apparently due to change of site.

†The record shows Susanville established in Plumas County 16 Oct 1860, with remark "Late in Lake Co., Nev." It went into Lassen County when created.

*Lopez being in Los Angeles County, and Angels Camp in distant Calaveras County, the note "Mail to Angels Camp" is obviously an error.

†Newbury Park was established in Ventura County in 1875. The site was changed into Los Angeles County in 1878 or 1882, and back to Ventura County, apparently in 1883.

†Reported established in Inyo County. If the record is correct, the change into Mono County must have been by change of site, before or at the time of appointment of James M. Caldwell as Postmaster 23 January 1878.

*Aromas, Lonoak, Peach Tree and Priest Valley are or were near the Monterey-San Benito County boundary. They are reported in both counties, due to changes of site or uncertain location of the boundary line.

Aromas was established in Monterey County; was apparently transferred to San Benito County on or about 23 Dec 1897, and there remained for about 27 years, when returned to Monterey Co. The appointment of Lesbia M. Cause, 20 Dec 1894, is the last entry on the San Benito record and the first for the second period in Monterey County.

Lonoak was established in Monterey County. The last Postmaster appointment in that county was made 14 June 1920 and the first in San Benito County 17 Nov 1922. It has been in San Benito County since.

Peach Tree was established in Monterey County, and probably went into San Benito County when created a year later. The record shows it back in Monterey County in time for the appointment of a Postmaster 19 Oct 1877.

Priest Valley is recorded as established in San Benito County 14 Dec 1882; but after the appointment of the next Postmaster 23 Oct 1883 appears the notation "Now in Monterey Co." The latter appointment opens the record in Monterey County, where it remains until the office was discontinued.

†New Idria is reported to have been established in Monterey County and shortly transferred to Fresno County. See Note under latter county. It seems unlikely that New Idria was ever in Monterey.

‡Slack Canyon is reported established in San Benito County 10 Feb 1873, and soon transferred to Monterey, but San Benito County was not created until 12 Feb 1874, a year later and never included the Slack Canyon area. Therefore, Slack Canyon was established and always in Monterey County.

*The record shows as to Bronco, "Late in Washoe Co., Nev."

†Donner in Placer County was changed to Norden in Nevada County, 24 Aug 1926.

‡Round Tent appears to have been established in Nevada County and moved into Yuba County about 1855. The change was due to change of site, or confusion as to the boundary line when the office was established. No official change of the Yuba-Nevada County boundary can explain the shift.

Therefore, Angel Island Post Office has always been in Marin.

*Established in San Francisco, into San Mateo when created.

†Pescadero is reported to have been established in Santa Clara County 15 June 1859 and transferred to Santa Cruz County at or near the time of the appointment of a new Postmaster 16 Nov 1860; and later transferred to San Mateo County. The latter change doubtless occurred in the spring of 1868, when the Legislature transferred a large area of Santa Cruz County to San Mateo. But, Pescadero must have been established in Santa Cruz County, and not in Santa Clara, unless the original site was far from the present location.

†The establishment of Callahan's Ranch and Fort Goff appear also in the record for Sierra County, obviously by clerical error.

‡Happy Camp was established in Del Norte County, but with surrounding area was transferred to Siskiyou County by Legislative action in 1887.

§Big Flat was established in Trinity County, and moved to Siskiyou. The change was reported in the Postal Bulletin of 10 Sept 1937.

*Changed from Georgiana in Sacramento County to Rio Vista in Solano County, apparently on the date of the appointment of Charles A. Kirkpatrick as Postmaster. The Sacramento River being the county boundary, it would appear that the post office site was moved across the river at that time.

*The record shows Knights Valley in Napa County was changed to Albany in Sonoma County. Apparently name and site changes occurred simultaneously.

†When Russian River was established the site was in Mendocino County. A radical boundary change transferred it to Sonoma County in 1855. The same change threw the future site of Clairville into Sonoma County. Therefore, Clairville when established in 1858 was in Sonoma County rather than Mendocino County as shown by the Post Office records.

‡See note under Lake County.

*Loving's Ferry was established in 1855 in San Joaquin County, on the north bank of the Stanislaus River, then the San Joaquin-Stanislaus County boundary. On 3 June 1858, Pleasant R. Feagins was displaced as Postmaster and L. J. Morrow was appointed, the name changed to Holden's Ferry, and about the same date the site was changed into Stanislaus County on the south bank of the river. On 18 Dec 1858, Feagins was re-appointed, the name changed back to Loving's Ferry, and the site moved to the north bank in San Joaquin County. On 30 March 1860, David B. Gardner was appointed, but on or about that date the Legislature made a change in the county boundary, giving both banks of the river to Stanislaus County. This automatically placed Loving's Ferry in Stanislaus County but the record is silent as to any change of site that might be implied in the appointment of a new Postmaster.

†Established in Tuolumne County, into Stanislaus County when created.

‡Established in San Joaquin County, into Stanislaus by boundary change in 1860.

*Beegum, Cottonwood and Manton are near the Tehama-Shasta line, and have been in both counties, probably by change of site.

Beegum was established in Shasta County, and transferred to Tehama 18 Jan 1900.

Cottonwood was established in Shasta County, moved to Tehama 28 March 1860, and back to Shasta 20 September 1872.

Manton was established in Tehama County, moved to Shasta 11 August 1897, and back to Tehama 29 Apr 1898.

†Transferred into Tehama County when created: Moon's Ranch from Colusa Co., Red Bluff from Shasta Co., Tehama from Colusa Co.

‡The record reports Pine Creek, Butte County, changed to Vina, Tehama County, 4 Apr 1871. Apparently there must have been change of site, as the Butte-Tehama boundary is reported to have been fixed in 1859.

*Kingsburg is reported in Tulare County, after its name was changed from Wheatville, until April 1881 or after. Its presence in Tulare County is doubtful, as indicated by note under Fresno County. The absence of mention of Wheatville, its predecessor, among the offices shown for Tulare County, supports that doubt.

†Waukena is reported to have been in Kings County briefly in 1893-4. See note under Kings County.

*Solano in Solano County is reported changed to Davisville in Yolo County 8 June 1868, implying that the county change occurred at the same time as the name change. If so, there must have been a change of site or a minor boundary adjustment, for the Solano-Yolo line is reported to have been definitely fixed in 1857.

*Bryden, Honcut and Moores Ranch have a confused history of name and county changes. See note under Butte County. See also Rackerby in the same note.

†Johnson's Ranch was established in Sutter County. It is reported to have been transferred to Yuba County 14 Aug 1866, about three months before its name was changed to Wheatland. The transfer was apparently due to a change of site, as no change of boundary occurred at that time.

†"D" indicates discontinued on the date shown; a dash, that the office was still active on the last day of 1859; and "To" that the name was "changed to" that indicated. For the date of change, see the new name.

CALIFORNIA TERRITORY

NOTE: Compensation of Postmasters and Nett Proceeds of their offices, from July 1, 1848 to June 30, 1849

Post Office	County	Postmaster	Compensation	Nett Proceeds
Monterey	-	Wm. G. Marcy fr Feb 23	$93.08	$139.63

*The "Register of all Officers and Agents in the Service of the United States", sometimes called the "Official Register", sometimes the "Blue Book", was authorized by Congress April 27, 1816, and further by resolution July 14, 1832. At first it was published by the Department of State; 1861-1905, by the Department of the Interior; 1907-1932, by the Bureau of the Census; thereafter, by the Civil Service Commission. As of the first of July or the thirtieth of September of each odd-numbered year, it names everyone in the service of the United States, civil, military and naval, and gives the compensation received during the previous fiscal year. Early Registers also showed the net proceeds of each post office for the same fiscal year, except where "no returns" were made up to the date of publication. The Post Office Department has been omitted since 1913.

("Alta California" of Feb. 12, 1855 publishes also a list purporting to be correct for Jan. 1, 1855, 160 names, on which the above do not appear. List printed May 29, 1855, as of Jan. 1, 1855, incorporates the above, giving a total of 175. Upon examining the list as of Sept. 1, 1854, published in the San Francisco Herald Oct. 17-19, 1854, it becomes apparent that the above list is intended to show the additions between Sept 1 and Dec. 31, 1854; and the list published May 29, 1855, in Alta California, is probably correct for Jan. 1, 1855 as stated.)

CALIFORNIA COUNTIES

*AREA AND BOUNDARY CHANGES

Counties Created in 1850

The original twenty-seven counties were created and described by Act of the Legislature approved by the Governor 18 February, 1850:

Branciforte - Name was changed to Santa Cruz in March, 1850 Statutes 1850:155-6

Butte - Lost Plumas 1854, including portion of present Lassen; and portion of Tehama in 1856, with further adjustment in 1859. The southern (Sutter) boundary was shifted in 1851, 1852, 1854, 1856; and was redefined in 1864 to conform to section lines. The area between Sacramento River and Butte Creek was lost to Colusa in 1856, modified in 1872. The Butte-Yuba line was changed in 1860, placing Strawberry Valley in Yuba; and in 1861, placing Woodville House in Yuba. Minor adjustments were made in 1872, 1874, 1897, 1901, 1915 and 1923, generally to place the boundaries on official land survey lines.

Calaveras - Originally a large county, Amador was created from its northern part in 1854; Mono took all east of the Sierra in 1861; Alpine a small portion in 1864.

Colusa - (Colusi until 1857) Has been completely changed from its original area except a six-mile strip along its present northern boundary. "All that part of Tehama south and west of Red Bluff and the whole of Glenn County were at one time included within the bounds of Colusa, while on the other hand, the greater part of present Colusa was originally within Yolo County."

1851. Northern boundary was moved slightly south, yielding area to Shasta; the southern (Yolo) boundary was moved southerly to approximately its present position.

1856. Creation of Tehama took about one-fourth of Colusa; but the boundary was not defined until 1872, when established approximately along the northern line of present Glenn County. The eastern boundary was shifted from Sacramento River easterly to Butte Creek, taking area from Butte.

1868. Western (Mendocino) boundary was defined.

1891. Glenn County was detached, including the town of Princeton and surrounding area which were returned to Colusa in 1893.

*Briefed from "California County Boundaries, A Study of the Division of the State into Counties and the Subsequent Changes in Their Boundaries", by Owen C. Coy, Ph.D., published by the California Historical Survey Commission, Berkeley, 1923.

Contra Costa - The San Joaquin line was adjusted in 1851. The southern portion went to Alameda in 1853.

El Dorado - Lost a small southern portion between Dry Creek and Cosumnes River to Amador in 1855 and 1857, and a small southeastern area to Alpine in 1864. Eastern portion of the northern (Placer) boundary was adjusted in 1863.

Los Angeles - Was greatly expanded in 1851, becoming one of the larger counties in the State by receiving portions of San Diego and Mariposa counties; but San Bernardino was detached in 1853. In 1866 Kern acquired the portion north of the present Los Angeles-Kern line. Orange was detached in 1889.

Marin - The area remains substantially unchanged. Angel Island and certain Bay areas were acquired from San Francisco in 1860.

Mariposa - Was originally one of the largest counties, including present Mariposa, Merced, Madera, Fresno, Kings, and Tulare, plus large parts of Kern, Mono, and Inyo.

1852. Lost Tulare County, which then included all of present Kings, and parts of Kern, Fresno, Mono, and Inyo.

1855. Lost Merced, which then included part of present Fresno and Madera.

1856. Lost most of Fresno, including part of present Madera.

Mendocino - Was named and described in 1850, but was attached to Sonoma for administration until 1859. Originally it included much of present Lake, and all of Sonoma north and west of Russian River. The Napa line was changed in 1852 and 1855, giving Napa the Clear Lake drainage. In 1855 the Sonoma boundary was moved far west of Russian River, and in 1859 the present Mendocino-Sonoma line was established approximately. In 1864 a district north of Clear Lake drained by Eel River was surrendered to Lake. The northern boundary was modified slightly in 1872 and 1892. A small area was surrendered to Glenn in 1907. In 1917 slight changes were made in the Lake and Sonoma boundaries.

Monterey - Was extended southerly by taking from San Luis Obispo in 1851; lost San Benito in 1874; other boundary adjustments have been minor.

Napa - The original boundaries were very uncertain excepting in the southern area, and were better defined in 1852. Changes in 1852 and 1855 gave Napa the entire Clear Lake drainage area. In 1855 the southern boundary was changed to approximately its present lines. Lake was detached in 1861, and boundaries modified slightly in 1864 and 1868. Knox Township was transferred from Lake to Napa in 1872.

Sacramento - No important changes. A small delta of the Mokelumne was surrendered to San Joaquin in 1870.

San Diego - At first included practically all of present San Diego, Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino. In 1851 it surrendered area to Los Angeles which afterwards became San Bernardino; lost most of Riverside in 1893, and all of Imperial in 1907.

San Francisco - Lost Angel Island and upper San Francisco Bay in 1854; regained the upper Bay in 1857, but lost it again in 1860; lost San Mateo in 1856; other boundary changes have been minor.

San Joaquin - The Contra Costa line was adjusted in 1851. The southeastern triangle, north of Stanislaus River, went to Stanislaus in 1860 (including Knights Ferry).

San Luis Obispo - No important changes; lost small area to Monterey in 1851; Rancho Santa Maria was alternately in San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara until 1872, when present line was defined.

Santa Barbara - No major changes except Ventura was detached in 1872; the southeastern boundary (Los Angeles) was redefined in 1851, 52, 54.

Santa Clara - No important changes except loss of Washington Township to Alameda in 1853.

Santa Cruz - (Originally Branciforte) Northern portion was lost to San Mateo in 1868.

Shasta - South (Tehama) boundary was moved south in 1851 and north in 1856; was again adjusted in 1857. The northern half was detached in 1852 to become the greater part of Siskiyou; the eastern half of the remainder, supplemented by Plumas area, became Lassen in 1864.

Solano - Mare Island was acquired from Sonoma in 1853; Napa boundary was adjusted in 1855; Yolo boundary in 1857.

Sonoma - Mare Island was excluded in 1853; Napa and Marin lines were adjusted in 1855. The Mendocino line was changed radically in 1855 and 1859, adding to Sonoma a large area west and north of Russian River.

Sutter - Lost one-third of area to Placer in 1851, line adjusted in 1866; northern boundary was moved south in 1851, but substantially restored in 1856.

Trinity - Originally included all of present Trinity, Humboldt, Del Norte, and much of Siskiyou, and was attached to Shasta for administration. It was organized in 1851 and surrendered northern half to Klamath same year. Humboldt was detached in 1853. Received headwaters of Trinity River from Klamath in 1855.

Tuolumne - Western (Valley) portion became Stanislaus in 1854; a small area east of the Sierra was lost to Alpine 1864.

Yolo - (Originally Yola) Lost north half to Colusi (Colusa) in 1851; Solano boundary was adjusted in 1857.

Yuba - Lost approximately one-half its area to Placer and Nevada in 1851; Sierra was detached in 1852. The Yuba-Butte line was adjusted in 1860, fixing Strawberry Valley and Woodville House in Yuba; this boundary was further adjusted in 1897 to conform to land survey lines. In 1866 Yuba yielded to Sierra a small area lying northeast of North Yuba River and Canon Creek.

Counties Created After 1850

Klamath - Created 25 April 1851, dissolved 28 March 1874. Originally it consisted of all State area lying west of the summit of the Coast range, north of a line drawn easterly through the mouth of Mad River. In 1852 Siskiyou took the eastern part; the southern part was attached to Trinity in 1855; and Del Norte was detached in 1857. In 1875, the remainder of Klamath was divided between Humboldt and Siskiyou.

Nevada - Created 25 April 1851 from the southern and eastern parts of Yuba. In 1852 a strip from Yuba was added along the northern boundary; in 1856 the line was moved still farther north to the middle fork of the Yuba River at the expense of Sierra County, which had been created in the meantime.

Placer - Created from Yuba and Sutter area. In 1863 a small area near Lake Tahoe was gained from El Dorado, lost in 1913. In 1866 a small western portion was returned to Sutter. In 1913 some 800 square miles south of Rubicon River was gained from El Dorado when the boundary was adjusted to land survey lines.

Sierra - Created from the eastern portion of Yuba. In 1856 a small southern area was surrendered to Nevada County. In 1863 a narrow strip along the northern boundary was acquired from Plumas.

Siskiyou - Created from the northern part of Shasta and the eastern part of Klamath. In 1874 Modoc was detached; but in 1875 Siskiyou acquired approximately half of Klamath. The Del Norte boundary was adjusted in 1887 to give Happy Camp and adjacent area along Klamath River to Siskiyou; and in 1901 was adjusted to section lines.

Tulare - Created from the southeastern half of Mariposa. A small area was lost to Fresno in 1856. Inyo and Kern were detached in 1866; Kings in 1893. The Tulare-Fresno line was adjusted in 1874 and 1876. Other changes have been essentially adjustment and definition of lines.

Alameda - Created 25 March 1853 from portions of Contra Costa and Santa Clara. The original boundaries remain substantially unchanged.

Humboldt - Created 12 March 1853 from Trinity area. It received approximately half of Klamath in 1875. The Del Norte boundary was adjusted to land lines in 1901.

San Bernardino - Created 26 April 1853 from the eastern portion of Los Angeles County. It lost its northern portion to Inyo in 1872; and its southern portion, including important southwestern area, to Riverside in 1893. The western boundary (Kern) was adjusted several times before being quite definitely fixed in 1878; but another dispute was not settled until 1917.

Amador - Created 10 May, 1854 from that portion of Calaveras lying north of the Mokelumne River. In 1855 and 1857, El Dorado area between Dry Creek and the Cosumne River was added; and El Dorado yielded a small eastern area in 1863. Creation of Alpine in 1864 took the eastern third of Amador.

Plumas - Created from Butte area. The southern (Sierra) boundary was adjusted in 1863, 1866, and 1868. The northeastern portion, including Honey Lake and Susanville, went into Lassen in 1864. In 1901 the Butte and Lassen boundaries were adjusted to land survey lines.

Stanislaus - Created 5 April 1854 from Tuolumne area. In 1860 a triangle north of Stanislaus River, including Knights Ferry, was added from San Joaquin County. Temporarily, 1866 to 1868, a substantial portion of Merced County was attached to Stanislaus.

Merced - Created 19 April 1855 from Mariposa County. It lost heavily to Fresno in 1856, and temporarily, 1866 to 1868, lost to Stanislaus. Otherwise, the present boundaries coincide closely with the original.

1856

Fresno - Created 19 April 1856 from the southeastern parts of Merced and Mariposa, and a small portion of Tulare. The portion east of the Sierra Nevada was taken by Mono in 1861; present Madera was detached in 1893. The Fresno-Tulare line was adjusted in 1874 and 1876; the San Benito line was adjusted in 1887 and the Kings line in 1909, all with some loss to Fresno.

San Mateo - Created from the southern part of San Francisco. The original boundaries remain almost unchanged except a substantial area was annexed from Santa Cruz in 1868.

Tehama - Created from Colusa, Butte and Shasta areas. A substantial area was added from Butte in 1857, the boundary being re-defined in 1859.

1857

Del Norte - Created 2 March 1857 from Klamath area. No important changes were made until 1887, when a large northeastern area was surrendered to Siskiyou; also, Happy Camp and adjacent Klamath River area. Del Norte recovered a small portion of this loss in 1901.

1861

Lake - Created from Napa area. Additions were made to the north in 1864 from Mendocino and to the east in 1867 from Colusa. Knox Township in Putah Valley was lost to Napa in 1872. The boundary with Mendocino was more precisely defined in 1907 and 1917, and with Glenn in 1909.

Mono - Created from Calaveras and Fresno. It lost a small northern area to Alpine in 1864; and a large southern area to Inyo in 1866 and 1870.

Alpine - Created 16 March 1864 from El Dorado, Amador, Calaveras and Tuolumne areas. There have been no significant changes.

Lassen - Created 1 April 1864 from Plumas and Shasta area. Changes have been minor.

Inyo - Created 22 March 1866 from Tulare and Mono area. In 1870 the boundary was moved to the north by taking from Mono; in 1872 to the south at the expense of San Bernardino and Kern.

Kern - Created from portions of Tulare and Los Angeles. Changes have been limited to defining boundaries, particularly the eastern (San Bernardino) line in 1878 and 1917.

Ventura - Created from the eastern portion of Santa Barbara County. The boundaries remain substantially unchanged, except for a survey in 1881 of the eastern boundary, which added approximately 275 square miles from Los Angeles County.

1874

Modoc - Created 17 February 1874 from the eastern portion of Siskiyou County. There have been no changes since.

San Benito - Created 12 February 1874 from the portion of Monterey County east and north of the Gabilan Mountains. In 1887 the eastern boundary was moved easterly at the expense of Fresno and Merced.

APPENDIX B

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE POSTMASTER GENERAL AND HIS SPECIAL AGENTS IN CALIFORNIA

1848 - 1849

From Message by President Zachary Taylor to the Congress, in relation to California and New Mexico, received January 24, 1850. U. S. Senate Executive Documents, 1st Session, 31st Congress, 1849 - 1850. Vol. 9, No. 18, pp. 932 - 952.

DEPARTMENT OF THE POST OFFICE

Post Office Department,
January, 1850

To the President of the United States:

In compliance with the resolution of the Senate of the United States of the 17th ultimo, I have the honor to report that the third section of the act of 14th August, 1848, authorizes the Postmaster General to employ an agent to make arrangements for the establishment of post offices and for the transmission of the mails in California; and that, in pursuance of said authority, the Postmaster General, on the 1st of November, 1848, appointed William Van Voorhees the agent for that Territory, to whom the following instructions were addressed:

Post Office Department,
November 1, 1848

Being authorized by an act of Congress, approved 14th August, 1848, to employ an agent in making arrangements for the establishment of post offices and for the transmission, receipt, and conveyance of letters in California, I hereby appoint you such agent. The duties with which you are to be charged will not be confined to any one branch of the department. They will embrace whatever may appertain to the operations of the contract, appointment, and fiscal bureaus of this department in California.

A route having been created by law, and the same being put in operation by the employment of steamships extending along the whole coast of California, your first duty will be to proceed to the selection of suitable persons for postmasters at San Diego, San Pedro, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, and Monterey, and at such other points on the Pacific, at which the United States steam mail packets shall touch, as may need such appointments.

For San Francisco a postmaster has already been appointed, Samuel Yorke At Lee, esq., who will repair, by the first opportunity, to that place. Of course, you will not take steps for appointing postmasters at any of the above-named places on finding that such appointment would be inexpedient or unnecessary by reason of not having a mail supply or from any other cause. On making such selection you will report the same to the department at Washington for appointment, in the mean time placing the nominee in the performance of the duties of his office by a temporary letter of appointment, signed by yourself, to cease on receiving a commission from the Postmaster General, or official information that the appointment has been refused. With your report of the nomination of any postmaster, you will forward his bond, duly executed by himself and sureties, and certified by you to be sufficient, and filled with such an amount as you shall deem adequate for the case. You will also cause him to be duly sworn on entering upon his duties. You will furnish him with proper blanks for post bills, accounts of mails sent, accounts of mails received, quarterly returns, and whatsoever else may be necessary to enable him properly to discharge his duties of postmaster, and to keep and render full and faithful accounts.

You will also instruct each postmaster how to perform his duties, and especially that he render his accounts for each quarter immediately after the expiration thereof to the Postmaster General of the United States at Washington. The collection of the balances arising at each office is a duty that will demand your utmost care and vigilance.

Before selecting postmasters for offices not receiving their mails by the government packets, you will ascertain by what road and from what point on the coast the same is to be supplied; and as no route into the interior of California has yet been created by act of Congress, you will have to make the supply of each office situated in the interior, conditioned upon the expense thereof being defrayed out of the net proceeds of such office. This restriction will necessarily keep the post-route arrangements which you may create upon an economical footing. With or without this restriction, the observance of economy in this respect is important; otherwise one or two points might absorb all the means which could arise in California for the support of mail service, leaving the other destitute. At present no more can be contemplated than semi-monthly or weekly transportation by the cheapest mode of conveyance, unless the same can be obtained at any favorable terms within the yield of the offices. You will bear in mind that no contract can be made for a longer period than four years, that the quarterly periods are for three months, commencing on the 1st of January, 1st of April, 1st of July, and 1st of October, and that arrangements, accounts, and settlements should be made to conform to these divisions of time, unless the circumstances be such as to render it impossible. On making such arrangements, you will immediately report the same to the department at Washington, for such order and contracts as the Postmaster General may make in the premises, in the mean time giving a letter of authority to perform the duties required.

Whether the compensation is restricted to the proceeds of the office or not, you will first determine in your mind a limit for that compensation by the rate per mile per annum. Horseback conveyance of the mails on the present routes in the United States, for weekly conveyance, will vary from three to six dollars per mile per annum. There may be some few instances, in the cotton-growing regions, where the wealth of the country is considerable, but the population very sparse, where the compensation will rise perhaps as high as ten dollars per mile per annum for weekly horseback conveyance.

You will make the contracts at the lowest offers the competition will produce, and not rise above the scale of prices indicated by the foregoing remark; the distance is to be counted but one way.

You will make provision in the contract that payment is not to be made until service is performed and certified to, and in every instance of omission there is to be an abatement of price.

A proper supervision is to be established and maintained, to insure performance, or deduction of pay. William Nelson, esq., United States consul at Panama, will be the mail agent of the United States for the Pacific mail. You will promptly advise him by the earliest opportunity of every office put in operation upon the coast, with those in the interior, depending on them respectively for their supply, so that he may properly bag the mails for those places.

You will prepare before leaving the United States, and take on with you, an adequate supply of all the blanks needed by yourself and the postmasters in California; also, mail-locks and bags of different kinds needed for that service. The iron lock and key belonging to it will be used for the interior mails; the brass lock and key for the mails conveyed by the steam packets. Hereafter, as the system enlarges in California, further discrimination in the mails may be made by placing the brass lock upon the most important interior routes. At present, the iron lock is deemed sufficient.

You will make report by every mail of the condition and progress of the business under your charge, and will be careful at the expiration of each quarter to render those official returns which will show the state of all pecuniary arrangements of the department in California, and the indebtedness and credits of each party whether postmasters, contractors, or others; and to keep the Postmaster General advised from time to time of the state and progress of settlements in the country, and what routes should be created by law to furnish them with the mails.

The postage for California is 40 cents on each single letter (which is a letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight) between any place in California and any place on the Atlantic coast, and 12-1/2 cents between any place on the Pacific. Double, treble letters, and so on, will be chargeable with double, treble, and the like increase of rates.

C. JOHNSON, Postmaster General

Wm. Van Voorhees, Esq.

The following reports were received from Mr. Van Voorhees, 21st June, 1849:

San Francisco, California
March 13, 1849

Dear Sir: Mr. Robinson, agent for Messrs. Howland & Aspinwall, having arranged with the captain of the brig "Laura Ann" to take a mail for the States to Panama, I embrace the only opportunity since my arrival to report that the mail steamer "California" reached San Francisco on the morning of the 28th ultimo, after a protracted voyage of twenty-eight days from Panama. Owing to the diminished supply of coal on board--insufficient, it was apprehended, to take the ship to San Francisco, if she were delayed to touch at San Diego and Santa Barbara--those places were omitted, and the mails in my charge to be delivered there were brought on, and are now in my possession here, no opportunity having offered to send them down. At Monterey the mails were delivered to Captain William G. Marcy, who received, opened, and distributed them, without, however, consenting to enter permanently upon the duties of the office. He nevertheless executed his bond as postmaster, which will be sent to the department hereafter, but with the understanding that he should probably relinquish the office in a short time. In case he concludes to do so, it will be found difficult to secure the services of another. No one in California seems at present disposed to take upon himself the trouble of public office, though it yield five times the compensation which may be expected from the post office at California. Young men, for example, daily relinquish places in the custom-house here with salaries of from four to eight dollars per diem; and, indeed, to engage anybody permanently in any business, at any reasonable salary, is exceedingly difficult. Eight and ten dollars per day are demanded and received for the most common services, and even these sums are respectfully declined during the mining season, which is just opening. With this state of things existing, you can readily see the difficulties to be encountered in organizing the department in the Territory of California. I am credibly informed that teamsters from Sutter's Fort to the mines may command $200, and often as much as $400 per month. Horses I know to be worth--and very ordinary horses, too--from $200 to $300. To contract with a Californian, therefore, to convey the mails, the department may well calculate a heavy "debit balance" over and above the proceeds of the post offices supplied at the rates of postage now established for the Territory.

The postmaster for San Francisco not having arrived, and the demand for intelligence from the States absolutely requiring it, it was deemed best to have the mails opened and distributed. For this purpose, Mr. C. L. Ross, a merchant of some considerable standing, was selected by me to take charge of them until the arrival of Mr. Dallas, to whom he was directed to pay over such postages as he may have collected, and deliver the office, should he (Dallas) consent to take it, which I am inclined to think is extremely questionable. The compensation afforded postmasters under the existing system in the States will be found wholly inadequate here, if the office is conducted separately from other business.

All expenses are exorbitant: boarding $17.50 per week; washing, from $6 to $8 per dozen; fuel from $30 to $40 per cord; and office rent inordinately high. Nothing is more common than $100 per month for a small room, scarcely sufficient for an office, to say nothing of lodging apartments for the officers. The cheap desk or case, for which the department usually allows from $5 to $10 in the States, can be had here for not less than $25 to $30; and so in proportion for all other necessary office furniture. With this office, however, in connexion with some other business, I apprehend no very serious difficulty in respect to obtaining a postmaster; for there are a number of merchants in the place who, having established themselves, will not hesitate to take charge of it in view of the benefit to be derived in the way of calling custom to their counters. So also with the offices at Stockton, Sutter's Fort, and perhaps the mines. Postmasters, I think, may be readily had for these, if their supply can be arranged; but at San Diego, Santa Barbara, Sonoma, Benicia, San Jose, Pueblo de los Angeles, &c., they will be rather more difficult to secure.

I am unable to state with any degree of accuracy at what time the steamer California may be expected to start upon her return voyage to Panama. Without coal or crew, the prospect of her speedy departure is certainly not the most flattering. Her crew have all, I believe, together with engineers, second and third mates, deserted or otherwise left her; and to hire others, especially engineers, is not an easy matter. I do not see that the other two steamers will be in any better condition upon their arrival, so that there is no guessing when the Pacific line of steamers shall commence operations. It is to be hoped, however, some arrangement will be made to establish the line. If nothing else can be done, they might be put in command of regular naval officers, and manned by the government.

In the course of a day or two I shall set out for the upper country, where most of the inhabitants of California, particularly at this season, "do congregate," and where it is very desirable to establish offices, if arrangements to supply them may be effected. As speedily as practicable I shall endeavor to collect all the information to be had relative to the establishment of post offices and post roads in the Territory, and communicate the same to the department without unnecessary delay. In the mean time it will give me pleasure to attend to any further instructions from the department.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. VAN VOORHEES
Special Agent

To the Postmaster General

San Francisco, California
March 14, 1849

Dear Sir: In addition to my report of yesterday, I have the honor to add that the mails therein mentioned for Santa Barbara and San Diego (at neither of which places has an office yet been established or postmaster appointed) I authorized to be opened and distributed here. This was considered expedient and advisable; first, because it was believed (and so turns out) that the most important communications they contained were of an official character, addressed to officers connected with the army in California, the greater part of whom it was known did not now reside there; and, secondly, because I have not been able to select any person to take charge of the mails at either of those points, owing to the failure of the steamers to touch there on their passage up.

Until necessary arrangements are made for the conduct of other officers than those provided for by the department at Washington, of which I will advise the department immediately upon effecting them, I would beg to suggest, that the postmasters at Washington city and New York be directed to mail all letters for California (except Monterey) to this office. Persons who would probably be written to at San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, &c., from the States, and who, perhaps, resided there some six or eight, or even two or three months since, are now as likely to be found here, or "parts adjacent," as there--indeed more so, for in the neighborhood of the mines congregate, I may venture to say, fully two-thirds, if not a greater proportion, of the citizens and residents of California. But were this not the case, it would be decidedly better, it seems to me, that the mails for points not yet provided for be kept at this office, from whence they may be forwarded to their destination so soon as proper officers have been appointed to receive them, rather than deliver them, as required now to do, if made up directly for such places, to persons irregularly and temporarily selected for the purpose.

In respect to such official letters as may be intended for officers of the army stationed at the above mentioned points, they could be sent, if necessary, to Monterey, and thence over the country by military express, (see the accompanying letter from Major Canby) or by the steam packets upon their return trip, when the line shall be put regularly into operation.

The office at San Francisco bids fair to be of the first importance. If the now rapidly growing prospects of the town, its advancing commerce and increasing wealth and population continue, it must soon be second to few offices in the Union. In the absence of other and better accommodation, it is now kept in the counting-room of C. L. Ross, esq., but at no distant period it must unquestionably become of quite too much consequence to be thus "cabined." What better arrangement can be made for it, unless the department authorizes the rent or purchase of a house for the purpose, I cannot well see. As stated in my report of yesterday, the emoluments and commissions afforded postmasters under the existing system in the States, considering the exorbitant expenses incurred here for fuel, office rent, and living, are not sufficient to induce the acceptance of the office by anybody unconnected with other business. Merchants may be had to take it in charge, but it is accepted by them as a sort of secondary auxiliary business, promotive of other private and more important concerns. Properly conducted, it requires, or soon will require, the undivided attention of some efficient and capable officer; and I do not think it possible, under the state of things existing here at present, to secure the services of such upon such conditions, unless some more increased compensation be in some way provided. But in relation to this I shall report more fully hereafter.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

"Assistant Adjutant General's Office,
"Monterey, California, March 9, 1849.

"Dear Sir: Please send me, by the first opportunity, any letters or packages that may be in your hands for General Riley, or for officers, &c., of the 2d infantry. The regiment will debark at San Diego, and I will have an opportunity of sending them south by the military express which runs from this place to the South Fork nightly.

"Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"ED. R. S. CANBY,
"Assistant Adjutant General

"Mr. W. Van Voorhies,
"U.S. Mail Agent, San Francisco, California."

Referred to in my communication of this date.

W. V. VOORHIES

-----*-

Mr. Van Voorhies was, on the 30th of March, 1849, superseded by the appointment of R. T. P. Allen, esq., to whom the following instructions were given:

Post Office Department,
March 31, 1849.

Being authorized by an act of Congress approved the 14th of August, 1848, to extend mail facilities to the Territory of California, I have, by letter of appointment dated the 30th instant, selected you as special agent for that purpose, vice W. Van Voorhies, removed. You will, accordingly, so soon as practicable, proceed, by way of the isthmus of Panama, to California, and relieve Mr. Voorhies, receiving of him the public property in his possession, and giving him a receipt for the same.

Your duties will embrace whatever may appertain to the operations of the contract, appointment, and fiscal bureaus of the department in California; and the efficiency of the mail service in that Territory will mainly depend upon your energy, industry, and integrity.

It will be your first duty to see that post offices are established, and suitable persons selected for postmasters, at San Diego, San Pedro, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, and San Francisco, and at such other points on the Pacific, at which the United States steam packet shall touch, as may need such appointments. Should you find that a post office is inexpedient or unnecessary at any of the above-named points, you will, of course, govern yourself accordingly.

On selecting a postmaster, you will place him in charge of the duties of his office, under a letter of appointment signed by yourself, until his commission may issue from the Postmaster General, or official information be received that it has been refused.

You will cause each postmaster, before entering on the discharge of his duties, to be duly sworn, and see that he executes his bond, with good and sufficient sureties, for such amount as you may deem adequate in the case.

You will furnish him with proper blanks for post bills, accounts of mails sent, accounts of mails received, quarterly returns, and whatever else may be found necessary to enable him properly to discharge his duties of postmaster, and to keep and return full and faithful accounts.

You will also instruct each postmaster how to perform his duties, and especially that he render his accounts for each quarter, immediately after the expiration thereof, to you, and through you to the Postmaster General of the United States at Washington, to be forwarded after the returns shall have been examined and registered at your office.

The collection of balances due from postmasters will demand your utmost care and vigilance.

As no route into the interior of California has yet been established by act of Congress, all offices not supplied by government packets will be special, and will, in general, depend for their supply of mail on the net proceeds of the offices severally; and, in extending the mail system into the interior of the Territory, you will have strict regard to economy, that the expense of the service may not exceed the means arising from it and properly applicable to it. At present, no more can be contemplated than semi-monthly or weekly transportation, by the cheapest mode of conveyance.

You will bear in mind that no contract can be made for a longer period than four years; that the quarterly periods are for three months, commencing on 1st January, 1st April, 1st July, and 1st October; and that arrangements, accounts, and settlements should be made to conform to these divisions of time, unless circumstances be such as to render such conformity impracticable.

You will make your contracts for transportation of the mails at the lowest offers the competition will produce, recollecting that the distance is to be counted but one way; and you will make provision in the contract that payment is not to be made until service is performed and certified to, and, in every instance of omission, there is to be an abatement of price. A proper supervision is to be established and maintained, to insure performance or deduction of pay.

William Nelson, esq., United States consul at Panama, is the mail agent of the United States for the Pacific mails. You will promptly advise him, by the earliest opportunity, of every office put in operation upon the coast, with those in the interior depending upon them respectively for their supplies, so that he may properly bag the several mails.

You will prepare, before leaving the United States, and take with you, an adequate supply of all the blanks needed by yourself and the postmasters in California; also, mail keys, locks, and bags of different kinds needed for that service. The iron lock and key belonging to it will be used for the interior mails--the brass lock and key for the mails conveyed by the steam packets. Hereafter, as the system enlarges in California, further discrimination in the mails may be made by placing the brass lock upon the most important interior routes.

You will make frequent reports of the condition and progress of the business under your charge, and will, as soon as practicable after the expiration of each quarter, render those official returns which will show the state of all pecuniary arrangements of the department in California, and the indebtedness and credits of each party, whether postmasters, contractors, or others; and you will keep the Postmaster General advised, from time to time, of the state and progress of settlements in the country, and what routes should be created by law to furnish them with the mail.

The postage for California is 40 cents on each single letter, (which is a letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight,) between any place in California and any place on the Atlantic coast, and 12-1/2 cents between any places on the Pacific. Double and triple letters, &c., will be charged with corresponding rates.

You will cause all contracts to be executed in triplicate, and postmasters' bonds in duplicate, and retain one copy of each in your office, transmitting the others to the department in Washington for file, as required by law and regulations.

You are authorized, when, in your judgment, the good of the service requires it, to remove a postmaster, and to withdraw from him the post office property; but you will, on exercising this power, report the fact to the Postmaster General, with your reasons for such removal. You are also authorized to annul a contract for the violation of its stipulations as expressed in the instrument; but you will be careful to report every exercise of this power to the department, stating your reasons therefor. You are also hereby empowered to dismiss a mail carrier from the service, when, in your opinion, the good of the service requires such action--the reasons to be reported as above.

The authority is hereby conferred on you to exercise the power of the department, in the first instance, to make deductions, and impose fines for omissions, failures, and delinquencies in the performance of mail service; the same to be reported to the department at Washington for ratification, record, and report.

You are hereby directed to bring suit in the proper courts for balances due to the United States by postmasters, when, in your opinion, the good of the service requires prompt action in the premises; and you will do and perform all needful acts in arranging, directing, and superintending all post office business whatsoever in California, and in regard to the transmission of the mails to and from the same; and postmasters and all other persons in the service of the department are expected and required to render you all practicable aid, and to obey all lawful directions given by you, as fully as if they had been given by myself.

The terms of the third section of the act of the 14th of August, 1848, do not require the Postmaster General to appoint an agent for each of the Territories therein mentioned, but merely authorize him to employ not exceeding two agents for Oregon and California.

It is now deemed expedient to place the whole of the mail arrangements within and between these Territories under the general superintendence and control of one individual, in order that they may be conducted with unity and harmony. You will therefore assume the principal charge of the mail business in both Territories, with the authority hereby conferred on you to continue the present agent for Oregon as your assistant, or to supersede him, and to employ another, should you, for the advantage of the public interest, consider it advisable and proper to do so.

In case of the removal by you of the present incumbent of the Oregon agency, you will forthwith report the fact to the department, together with the name of the person whom you may appoint as his successor, in order that a commission may be sent to him. In the interval, you are empowered to give him a temporary commission; or, should you find occasional or temporary assistance sufficient, you may of your own authority engage it, and commission the person employed accordingly.

J. COLLAMER,
Postmaster General

R. T. P. Allen, Esq.

The following is the first report received at the department from Mr. Allen:

Panama, May 17, 1849

Sir: In obedience to your instructions, I sailed from New York, in the steamer Falcon, April 19, for the scene of my distant service. We arrived at Charleston, Savannah, and Havana, on the days indicated in your advertisement; were delayed near five hours off Charleston bar awaiting the mail, and two days at Havana coaling. The Isthmus did not bring us the New Orleans mail until the 26th, one day after her time. Leaving Havana on Friday, the 27th, we reached Chagres on Wednesday, the 2d of May, and immediately sent the mail to the post office, as required by the authorities there. I will here mention that the Falcon is a noble steamer and well adapted to the service, but entirely unable to keep up the monthly communication required by law; and hence no regularity can be attained in the transmission of the Pacific mails until additional steamers are put on the line.

Many letters and papers were put on board the Falcon for various points on both coasts after the regular mail, a portion being prepaid to the clerk of the steamer. I also noticed that a number of bags of newspapers were shipped as merchandise. I name the facts as interfering materially with the resources of the department, and as needing correction. Indeed, many packages of mailable matter will always, legally or otherwise, be carried by these steamers, unless we have an agent on board.

I desired the captain of the Falcon to wait at Chagres some days, that I might report to you from Panama by her, and also that, if possible, a Pacific mail might be taken home in her; but being told that he could not delay longer than the 6th or 7th instant, I at once gave up the thought of communicating by that trip, and proceeded leisurely up the river, and across the hilly country to this place.

Immediately on my arrival I had an interview with Senor Arosemana, the "intendente" (law interpreter) of this province, and explained to him at length my views of the postal convention, in regard to the unity of a mail, whether of one or many bags. I then directed our consul to write an official note to the governor on the subject, explaining those views as of our government, (not deeming it advisable to demand here permission to transport the mail as merchandise,) and demanding a reduction in their charge. A favorable answer has been returned, so far as the authorities here are concerned, and the matter referred to the chief executive for final decision; so that, until the existing convention be modified, our mails will pay thirty dollars for the first hundred of gross weight, and twelve dollars for each additional hundred pounds.

The importance of this admission will be seen, when I name that they had charged for the mail of the Falcon ($1,250) twelve hundred and fifty dollars tax, whereas the charge paid will be less than one-tenth of that sum. I have directed this to be paid, but still under protest, as we claim the right to carry our mails across as merchandise.

I have been informed by the intendente, within a day or two, that a law has been enacted by this government passing all merchandise across the isthmus free of toll of every kind. Whether this law may not be made to bear on the transmission of the mails, is worthy of inquiry.

As, independent of the terms of our postal convention, newspapers pass the isthmus free, I have directed Mr. Nelson to send to the post office for weighing as mail the bags containing correspondence alone, in the letter pouches.

My attention was called to a bag, about to be shipped on one of our steamers, marked "L. & Co.'s express mail," and I directed the consul, whom I have appointed sub-agent for the service of the isthmus, (see letters of appointment and instructions, herewith transmitted,) not to permit it to be shipped, or the letters and papers to be forwarded in the steamers, except in the regular mail. Under my instructions, this mail matter will be placed in the mail, and charged as though it had been mailed in New York.

The mail pouches crossing the isthmus should be of leather; The India-rubber pouches will not stand the service--those sent by the Falcon being worn out before they arrived at Panama.

I observe a tendency on the Atlantic side to make the mail service a secondary matter, and to run for passengers. This needs correction. Had the Falcon waited one day more, she would have carried back the Oregon's mail, and important despatches for our government from California. The loss of a mail for want of a single day's delay has now occurred twice during her short period of service. She should be ordered always to wait until a messenger can go to Panama and return--this at the least. The Panama mail contains many letters not prepaid; these are issued here by the post office for the New Granadian charge simply. It also contains letters for the coast of South America, for forwarding which, in the British mail, provision should be made.

In view of the entire field, I deem a confidential agent here, with ample powers, as indispensable to the efficiency of the service. I would not advise a separate mail agent on board the steamers; this would be objectionable in many points of view; it would require a large expenditure in the first place, unnecessarily; and there would almost invariably arise a jealousy of feeling between him and the officers of the ship, productive constantly of unpleasant results, and ever working to the disadvantage of the service. I would strongly recommend, therefore, the appointment of the captains of the steamships as mail agents, with a small salary to compensate them for the additional trouble the supervision of the mails would give them--say five hundred dollars per annum. This would identify them with the mail service, and they (who have controlling power on board the steamers) would feel an interest and pride in the efficiency of that service; and I am entirely satisfied that the department would save annually more than their salaries in the prevention of frauds of various kinds, and in the increased correspondence arising from offering facilities to passengers and others to mail letters. I recommend, then--

1st. A resident agent in Panama, fully empowered to superintend the mail service on the isthmus.

2d. Let the contract for the transportation from Chagres to Panama be as heretofore; and if the great increase of service demanded since the bid was made require additional compensation, let it be given. The natives cannot be trusted for the promptness necessary to this service.

3d. Appoint the captains of the mail steamers on both oceans mail agents, duly sworn, with powers and duties similar to the travelling route agents on the railroads of the States.

4th. Give instructions that the steamers carry no mailable matter not in the mails.

5th. Fix the day of departure, on either side of the isthmus, at the first of each month. We will try to bring the California steamers to Panama by the 20th, and start them regularly on the first of the succeeding month. We must aim at regularity, or have confusion worse confounded in the entire line, and a constant recurrence of such misadventures as the last failure in connecting.

6th. Let the letters be put in leather pouches and labeled "correspondence," or "letters," and the newspapers in unsealed canvass bags, labelled "newspapers."

7th. Let the steamer agents be directed to collect the small letter bags into a large convass bag, and to mark it accordingly.

8th. I suggest that steps be taken immediately to terminate the present "postal convention." Our mails should pass free, as the service is not rendered for which the payment provided for in the present convention was a "consideration".

9th. I suggest that you direct the various postmasters to receive letters for ports in South America, charging postage in advance to Panama, and from Panama to those ports twenty-five cents extra--a total of fifty-five cents on the single letter, prepaid in all cases.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. T. P. ALLEN,
Special Agent California and Oregon.

Hon. Jacob Collamer.

Second report received at the department from Mr. Allen.

Mail Agency Office, San Francisco, June 23, 1849

Sir: Having been delayed in Panama in the discharge of duties pertaining to my office, and by illness, I did not arrive at this place until the 13th instant, and on the 15th resumed the duties of my office, surperseding Messrs. Voorhies and Bronson, leaving the latter, however, in office as assistant. (He has since returned to the States.)

I have, until this date, been engaged in establishing my office in this place, and collecting such information, from the various sources accessible to me, as might guide me in extending the proper facilities of the mail system to the people of California. There exists at present a very general spirit of dissatisfaction among all classes of people here with the absence of these facilities; and I shall feel it an imperative duty, acting under the advice of the governor and of Hon. T. B. King, to extend to the various parts of the Territories the benefits of the service.

The unexampled productiveness of the mining districts has greatly enhanced the price of labor, and, as a consequence, of rents and of real estate generally. While the laborer can realize an ounce of gold per day (on the average) in the mines, he cannot be hired here for a great deal less; and while carpenters get $18 per day, and service of every kind is in proportion, the cost of living must be very great. Boarding and lodging rates at about $25 per week, and all expenses are proportionably high. I know gentlemen who pay $200 per month (more than my entire income) for their cooks; and one man gets, as I have been well assured, $6,000 per annum for driving a wagon for one firm, with the privilege reserved of hauling for other houses when not engaged in the service of his employers; and ordinary clerks are receiving $300 to $500 per month.

You will readily perceive, therefore, that the expenses of the department here must greatly exceed those of the department at home for similar services; and it can scarcely be expected that the income arising from postages here will meet the necessary expenditures of the department, conducted however economically. You may rest assured that I will not permit unnecessary expenditures, and that in extending the system into the interior I will conduct everything on the most economical plan.

Each mail from the East has, for the last two months, brought about six thousand letters. Considering the great number of emigrants now "en route" from the States, the ensuing mails may be expected to bring a greatly increased number; so that I think we may safely estimate an average of ten thousand letters per month, which will yield an income of nearly $50,000 per annum--say $40,000 as nett income, applicable to current expenses; while the amount of service that seems absolutely indispensable cannot be procured for less than $80,000 to $100,000 per annum.

It will be necessary to make special provision for the post office in this place, as the duties of the office will occupy the postmaster's entire time, not permitting him to engage in any other business, while his entire commissions will not pay the rent of his office.

I would suggest for your consideration the propriety of purchasing, or erecting, a permanent building for the post office, &c., in this town, or wherever the distributing office for the Territory is to be permanently located.

True economy would certainly demand some such course, to save the enormous rents to which the department is now liable. In order that you may be well advised of the state of things here, I would respectfully refer you to the reports of General Riley, and other officers of the government, to be found on file in the proper offices, and to H. D. Cooke, esq., to whom I have committed my despatches, that he might give you information of the state of affairs here more fully than I can do in this report. Mr. Cooke has been in this Territory several years, and is every way reliable.

I shall leave this place on Monday, the 25th instant, for the purpose of examining at what places the establishment of a post office may be necessary, and at the conclusion of that tour I shall have the honor of reporting to you the result of the exploration.

Since my arrival here I have had opportunity of communicating with some of the first citizens of Oregon, and have, acting on information derived from them, established post offices at Portland, Oregon city, and Salem, on the Willamette river, and appointed postmasters at those several points.

As the postmaster of Astoria has absented himself for a long period from his office, (is now in this Territory at the mines,) I have removed him, and appointed General John Adair, of Astoria, in his place. So soon as I receive the acceptance of these several officers, I will formally communicate their appointments to you, that their commissions may issue.

I transmit herewith a report from my predecessor, which I have caused to be placed on record in this office, and have the honor to remain,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. T. P. ALLEN,
Specail Agent California and Oregon.

Hon. Jacob Collamer

Third report received at the department from Mr. Allen.

Agency Office, San Francisco, August 2, 1849

Dear Sir: I have been so constantly engaged in the "out-door" duties of my office, that I have been unable to prepare an official report in time for this steamer--shall doubtless be able to prepare one in time for the next. Enclosed you have a notice designed to inform the public of the locality of post offices. At present, nearly all the letters arriving remain in this office many weeks before being called for.

I have advertised for proposals for carrying the mail to these several offices, and will endeavor to get the lines in operation "on regular contracts" by the first of October.

The last mail brought near eighteen thousand letters. If correspondence increases in anything like this ratio, the receipts will more than cover all liabilities for transportation, &c., unless, as at present, a large portion of the letters come prepaid. The extraordinary state of things here will render instructions for the support of this office necessary, as no responsible man can be found to take the office for the emoluments accruing under the present laws. I crave instructions that will enable me to make this office effective, and to transport the mail into the interior so far as may seem necessary, and on such other points as may seem to you proper.

I have not heard from Mr. Moore since informed by the prints that he had left New York for Chagres.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. T. P. ALLEN,
Special Agent California and Oregon.

Hon. Jacob Collamer.

Fourth report received at the department from Mr. Allen.

Mail Agency Office,
San Francisco, August 29, 1849.

Sir: As indicated in my report of the 23d of June, I left this place on the 25th of that month for the purpose of selecting proper sites for the post offices in the interior.

A pleasant sail of four hours in San Francisco and San Pablo bays brought me to Benicia, a mapped town on the straits of Karquinez, containing now about forty houses, where I landed and took horses for the Upper Sacramento. Benicia is selected for a post office, with a view to the supply of the army and naval depot established there, and of the valleys of Mopa and Sonoma--the latter having been selected as the headquarters of the Pacific division by Major General Smith.

From Benicia I travelled along the base of the hills on the North Suisun bay, crossing several small but beautiful valleys, a distance of seventy-five miles, to Vernon, at the mouth of Feather river. This village is established for the commercial supply of the mining districts of Bear creek, and Juba and Feather rivers--its location being doubtless well chosen for the object in view. I selected it as being, among existing points on the river, best adapted for the postal supply of the regions named.

After a day's delay at this point, I passed up Feather river, through a most beautiful country, twenty miles, to Sutter's upper farm, on the west bank of the river. The country bordering the Feather river is by far the most fertile and most beautiful I have seen in California.

Crossing Feather river at Sutter's, I crossed the barren, arid plains twenty miles to the foot of the hills--visited the lower mines of the Juba, and, finding no grass for our animals, passed immediately to the crossing of Bear creek at Johnson's ranch, a distance of fifteen miles. At this point, being fifteen miles from the mouth of Feather river, it is in contemplation, I believe, to establish a military station. Passing thence the same day twenty-five miles further, we encamped at the "dry diggings" of the North Fork of American river, and the next day, visiting the mouth of the North Fork, in the vicinity of Mormon island, passed down the American river to Sacramento city, at its mouth, encamping one night on the road.

This is a thriving town, rapidly building up, and promises well to be a place of much importance. Here I established a post office for the supply of the vicinity, and of the mining district of the American and its branches.

From Sacramento city I passed through the plain lying to the east of the Sacramento and Joaquin rivers to Stockton, another thriving town, located on a slough about three miles from the latter river, and sixty miles from Sacramento city. We crossed in this space several beautiful streams marked on the map; and, locating a post office at Stockton for the supply of the district watered by the branches of the Joaquin, I returned by water to San Francisco.

The entire region passed over in this journey, with the exception of narrow strips bordering the Sacramento and its upper and western tributaries, is not at all adapted to agriculture, and but ill so to grazing, and is only valuable for its mineral resources.

The entire valley of the Joaquin, and of the lower Sacramento, doubtless formed, at no very distant epoch, a lake, of which Suisun bay, still rapidly filling up, is the remnant.

Since my return from Stockton, I have remained so far as possible in this place, being unwilling to leave the office here for any considerable length of time, pending the arrival of Mr. Moore, and being mostly occupied in the duties pertaining to the establishment of post offices, appointment of postmaster, formation of temporary contracts, inviting bids for permanent ones, &c.

Finding myself thus fully occupied in the upper portion of the Territory, I despatched J. Ross Brown, esq., with a commission as temporary special agent, and instructions to proceed southward as far as San Diego, establishing post offices at San Jose, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Diego, and such other points on the main southern route as might appear to him necessary.

I shall be able, from present indications, to provide the necessary mail service for the Territory on much more reasonable terms than I had supposed possible; and, should we be able to get the letters out of the offices, the revenue will be amply sufficient for the service.

Soon after my arrival at this place, John W. Geary, esq., the then incumbent in office here, tendered his resignation; and, there being presented to me an eminent (whig) gentleman of Tennessee, as willing to accept the office temporarily, who was every way suitable to the post, I accepted his resignation, and gave the gentleman alluded to (W. P. Bryan, esq.) a letter of temporary appointment, to continue in force until the arrival of Mr. Moore, taking from him bonds in the sum of $5,000.

I have established post offices at the following points, viz:
Benicia, supplied weekly by water from San Francisco.
Sacramento city, supplied weekly by water from San Francisco.
Stockton, supplied weekly by water from San Francisco.
San Jose, supplied weekly by water from San Francisco.
Vernon, supplied weekly by water from Sacramento city.
Culloma, supplied weekly on horseback from Sacramento city.
Sonoma, supplied weekly on horseback from Benicia.
And have appointed the following named gentlemen postmasters at the several points indicated, viz:

Charles W. Hayden, to be postmaster at Benicia.
Henry E. Robinson, to be postmaster at Sacramento city.
William Hipkins, to be postmaster at Stockton.
Gilbert A. Grant, to be postmaster at Vernon.
Jacob P. Little, to be postmaster at Culloma.
L. W. Boggs, to be postmaster at Sonoma.
J. D. Happe, to be postmaster at San Jose.

These gentlemen are men of great respectability, and every way worthy the appointments they have received. I respectfully recommend that commissions be forwarded them in due time.

I rejoice that you have thought proper to relieve me of a portion of my duties by your instructions to Mr. Moore, because it will enable me to be absent for a longer period at a time from my office, and thus more efficiently to discharge the out-door duties of my agency.

Bids for the mail service for one year from the first of October next will be received, according to advertisement, until the first day of September, when the lettings will be made, according to law.

In my report from Panama in May last, I had the honor to recommend a system for the transportation of the mail on both oceans, as well as on the isthmus. From information given me by Mr. Moore, I see that nothing has been done towards securing a speedy and safe transit of the isthmus; while, from facts reported by him, speedy action would seem to have become imperatively necessary. I would respectfully urge that the mails cannot be safely intrusted to the care of the natives. An agent should always accompany the mail across the isthmus, and also on the steamers on each side; and I would recommend that the steamers be required to have a mail room as an office for the agent, and for keeping and assorting the mails.

No care seems to be now taken of the mails, especially on the Atlantic side. They are stowed away in a dark corner below, and are constantly liable to be overlooked. Thus the last Havana mail was carried to Panama and returned; and Mr. Moore informs me that at Chagres they were thrown ashore and left exposed all night, one of the bags wet and another broken open: his servant put them under cover and took care of them, himself not being permitted to accompany the mail on shore.

The clerk of the Falcon had in his possession letters and packages left with him to be forwarded in April, which Mr. Moore mailed in July. He is not, I should think, a suitable person to have charge of so important a service. It would seem, indeed, that neither the officers nor owners of the Falcon have any regard to the good of the public service, but make it entirely subsidiary to other ends.

I am not advised of the terms of the Pacific Steamship Company's contract; will you cause a copy of it to be forwarded to me?

I have the honor to forward herewith a letter from John W. Geary, the late postmaster at San Francisco, (C;) also, copies of a correspondence between the undersigned and Commodore Jones, marked A 1, 2, 3; and of a letter to Brigadier General Riley, with his answer thereto, and a letter to Jacob B. Moore, marked B 1, 2, 3; which will explain themselves, and are forwarded because it is probable your attention may be called to the matters to which they relate by others.

I have received, since the commencement of this report, the acceptances of the persons appointed to the post offices in Oregon. I would respectfully ask that commissions be sent to them as follows, viz: to John Adair, as postmaster at Astoria; to Thomas Smith, as postmaster at Portland; to George S. Curry, as postmaster at Oregon City; to J. B. McLane, as postmaster at Salem. The India-rubber mail bag is entirely unfit for this service. I would respectfully request you to cause an assortment of the smaller leather pouches, say fifty in all, to be sent to the office in this place, for use in this Territory and Oregon. There are no "distribution blanks" among those heretofore sent to the Pacific coast; a full assortment is greatly needed for the post office in this place; they should be sent in quantity by the first steamer.

Jesse D. Carr, esq., an attache of the custom house here, has presented a claim, on which I need instructions from the department. It appears that the postmaster at New Orleans confided to his care a mail of eight bags for this coast, which Mr. Carr receipted for and brought to Panama at his own expense; he now asks to be reimbursed in the sum of two hundred dollars, ($200). This mail was turned over to our consul at Panama, as shown by his receipt, without passing through the New Granadian post office, and of course without paying the usual toll to that government. It is proper to add, that he did not come from New Orleans to Chagres in the mail steamer. The matter will be left in "statu quo" until instructions are received to cover the case. So little care is taken of the mail on the steamers, and in the transit of the isthmus, that I have thought it proper, pending a permanent arrangement, to commit it to the care of a special agent, who will deliver also a budget to the department at Washington. This agent will be entitled to no compensation other than the free passage secured to mail agents.

Having received information that J. Ross Brown, the temporary special agent whom I sent southward, has gone no further than Monterey, (Having been detained there by sickness,) I have recalled him, and will, so soon as the steamer leaves, proceed in person to establish the southern offices. For this purpose I will leave San Francisco early next week, and remain in the field on the southern route until the middle of October or the first of November.

Judging from information derived from Mr. Moore, I think it probable that the authorities on the isthmus do not adhere to the arrangement, made during my stay in Panama, diminishing the tax on our mails by counting all the bags as one mail, and that Messrs. Howland & Aspinwall decline carrying them across the isthmus according to their proposition to your predecessor. I earnestly commend this matter to your early attention. The mails should by all means cross the isthmus in charge of an American, and the old postal convention with New Granada should be terminated.

At the commencement of the ensuing rainy season, when I will be unable to travel in the interior for several months, and shall have completed mail arrangements for both Territories, I will visit the isthmus, and, probably, report to you in person the condition of the service, as during the season indicated, such an absence from the Territory as the expedition would require would not be detrimental to the interests of the service, and my presence in Washington and on the isthmus might be of material advantage to it in many respects.

Owing to the inadequate compensation of postmasters, I find it very difficult to procure proper persons to serve in offices where there is so much business as to interfere with the incumbent's ordinary avocations. This is the case at Sacramento city, where a very large amount of mail matter will be distributed. I enclose a letter (marked D) from the postmaster at that place, and solicit instructions on the subject. Can I in any case authorize a postmaster to employ a clerk? Can I, where it appears necessary to use a separate building, authorize one to be rented? On examination, it will appear that in all cases clerk hire and office rent would each exceed the postmaster's entire commissions.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. T. P. ALLEN,
Special Agent for California and Oregon

Hon. Jacob Collamer.

The following instructions were addressed by the Postmaster General to Mr. Allen:

Post Office Department, May 16, 1849

Sir: Mr. Jacob B. Moore having been appointed and commissioned as postmaster at San Francisco, in California, and having duly executed and filed his bonds to the United States for the faithful performance of the duties of said office, the special instructions given you in reference to the post office at San Francisco are, by said appointment, suspended, and are therefore revoked. You will, however, furnish Mr. Moore, out of the supplies taken with you for the offices in California, all blanks, stationery, mail pouches, sacks, &c., which may be required for the use of his office; and also render him any aid in the due enforcement of the laws of the United States regulating the Post Office Department which he may from time to time require, and your instructions warrant. As the post office at San Francisco is a distributing office, you will report to Mr. Moore all offices which you may establish under your instructions, with the names of the postmasters, and also the names of all contractors and mail carriers whom you may employ, and the routes over which they travel, the times of arrival and departure, the distance from point to point, the mode of conveyance stipulated, &c., and the compensation allowed to each, in order that he may be enabled, according to law, to report to the inspection office at Washington, from time to time, the condition of the service.

And you will also file in the office at San Francisco copies of all contracts which you may make for the transportation of the mails.

You will instruct each and every postmaster in California and Oregon to render their quarterly accounts to the department, through the postmaster at San Francisco, and to deposite with him the nett proceeds of their respective offices, or to pay the same to the contractors or others engaged in the service, on his order. The instructions addressed to you on the 31st March last are therefore so modified as to conform to the above.

You will find Mr. Moore ready to co-operate with you in the best mode of arranging the mail service, and establishing post offices at proper points; and, as he has had experience in the department, and is well acquainted with the post office system, you will consult with him on those matters, and all others touching the interest of the department.

Respectfully,

J. COLLAMER,
Postmaster General

Col. R. T. P. Allen,
Special Agent, &c., San Francisco, California.

The following additional instructions were addressed by the Postmaster General to Mr. Allen:

Post Office Department,
December 10, 1849.

Sir: Your letter of appointment of the 31st March last specified it to be your first duty to see that post offices were established, and suitable persons were selected for postmasters, at San Diego, San Pedro, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, and San Francisco, and such other points on the Pacific, at which the United States steam packets shall touch, as may need such appointments. It appears that such appointment has been much needed at San Diego, but it does not appear that any has as yet been made.

You were also instructed that, as no route into the interior of California has yet been established by act of Congress, all post offices not supplied by government vessels would be special--that is, depend for their supply of mail on nett proceeds of the offices severally. And you were enjoined, that in extending the mail system into the interior of the Territory you must have a strict regard to economy, that the expense of the service may not exceed the means arising from it and properly applicable to it.

The last mail from San Francisco brings accounts against this department for fourteen weeks' transportation of the mail from San Francisco to Sacramento city, and thence to Culloma, at the amount of $9,800, being at the rate of $36,400 per annum; also, accounts for eight weeks' transportation of the mail from San Francisco to Monterey, and from San Francisco to Stockton, at $4,000, which is at the rate of $26,000 per annum. Said accounts recite that the service was performed as per contract with you, as the special agent of this department for California. There is nothing to show that the offices above named yield at the rate of $62,400 per annum--an amount that is believed to be vastly beyond the nett proceeds of those offices, to which nett proceeds you are instructed to limit the cost of your mail arrangements.

The only knowledge or intimation that the department has of such contracts being made is contained in those accounts, which, however, come through a channel that induces full reliance on the correctness of their statements; whereas your letter of appointment requires that you should, as soon as practicable after the expiration of each quarter, render those official returns which will show the state of all pecuniary arrangements in California, and the indebtedness and credit of each party, &c., &c., and that you cause all contacts to be executed in triplicate--one of which you were to file in the office in San Francisco, as per instructions of the 16th of May, 1849, and the two others in each case were to be transmitted to Washington, to be filed in the department and the Auditor's office, as required by law. No contract, or duplicate thereof, in the foregoing or any other case, has been received from you for file as aforesaid; nor any account of contract arrangements or expenditures whatever.

The department has received information through different channels, but unofficial, that you have entered into new contracts for a term of one year from the first of October, 1849, at amounts in the aggregate exceeding $50,000 per annum. But no report is received from you to show officially whether such be the fact or not; detailing, as your report should, the advertisement put before the public, the bids received, and that those accepted were, in the language of your instructions, the lowest that competition could produce; and showing, moreover, that the amounts you had engaged to pay were within the means arising from the service itself--that is, the nett proceeds of the offices--agreeably to the limitations prescribed in your instructions.

I desire it to be distinctly understood that payments cannot be made for mail transportation service at San Francisco or here, until the contracts in triplicate are executed and placed on file, one in the office at San Francisco and the other in Washington, which can easily be done, before any payment can become due, at the expiration of the first quarter; and that a contract for any service made at a higher amount than the lowest bid, or made for an amount beyond what is well understood to be the revenue of the route, cannot be considered as authorized by this department.

In my letter to you of the 16th of May, after speaking of the experience in the department of J. B. Moore, esq., the newly-appointed postmaster of San Francisco, and his acquaintance with the post office system, I directed that you should consult with him in the arrangement of the mail service, and the establishment of post offices, and all other matters touching the interests of the department. I trust that this instruction will be faithfully observed. Mr. Moore will make payment, so far as his means will go, not upon your order as such, but upon the contract, duly filed, agreeably to the instructions of May last, and upon your certificate of the performance of service, setting forth the amount to be deducted for failures and delinquencies, if any.

By the instructions of March last, the general superintendence of Oregon was placed in your charge, in addition to the special agency of California; and you were instructed to continue the present agent in Oregon as your assistant, or to supersede him, and employ another, as you should think best; and, in case of his removal, you were forthwith to report the name of a suitable person as his successor, that a commission might be sent to him; during the mean time, to give him full authority and instructions to act at once in the business.

Great complaint is made that nothing whatever has been done in the way of providing any mail arrangements for Oregon; and, although the then special agent had returned to the States, as appears by your letter of June 23, yet no report of a successor has been made by you.

To recur again to the contracts which it is said you have made, I have to remark that, if they are of the character stated, the sanction of this department must be withheld--not only because they are beyond the limitations prescribed in the instructions, but beyond the limitations prescribed by law, because, as the letter of 31st March informed you, no routes in the interior of California had yet been established by act of Congress.

The expediency of establishing a route parrallel to the one created by act of Congress, and used by the steam ship, is not perceived; nor the propriety of drawing on the postmaster of San Francisco for your salary, until an account is duly made up and sent to this department for audit.

Respectfully, &c.,

J. COLLAMER,
Postmaster General

Col. R. T. P. Allen,
Special Agent, &c., San Francisco, California.

The foregoing copies respectfully submitted to the President, present all the correspondence between the Post Office Department and its agent in California.
